

Checklist

Considering your care needs

This checklist can help you think about and record your care needs. This could help make sure all your needs are considered at your care needs assessment.

As you work through the checklist, think about what your care needs stop you doing that you used to do, or would like to do in the future. You need to be able to show the impact that your care needs are having on you – so be honest.

What should be covered in your care needs assessment?

Your assessment should cover all the different areas of your life, including:

- your personal relationships – family and friends
- your physical and mental health and emotional wellbeing
- your safety
- your control over your daily life – this includes control over your care and support and the way it's provided
- being able to work, study, volunteer or take part in leisure activities
- your economic wellbeing – for example, whether there are any benefits you could be claiming
- where you live – for example, how suitable it is
- feeling that you're contributing to society
- being treated with dignity and respect.

For each area of your life listed below, consider the following:

- Can you do this without help? What sort of help do you need?
- Does it take you a long time or cause you pain or anxiety?
- Can you do it safely?

Be as detailed as possible. Don't leave out any problems you have because you think they are too minor. You may want to keep a diary to show how things affect you at different times.

Managing and maintaining nutrition

This is about preparing and eating food and getting enough to drink. It includes being able to shop for food and any physical difficulties you might have, such as problems swallowing.

Examples of things to consider

Does your illness or the medication you take affect your eating and/or drinking?

What do you eat? Do you have a healthy diet?

Can you do your own shopping?

Do you need help to prepare drinks and snacks? Do you need help to prepare main meals?

Can you check use-by dates and tell if food is fresh?

Do you need help with eating and drinking?

Do you need someone to remind or encourage you to eat?

Do you need any special equipment to help you in the kitchen?

Do you have any kind of feeding aid such as a PEG feed?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing

Maintaining personal hygiene

This is about whether you're able to wash yourself without help and keep your clothes clean.

Examples of things to consider

Can you wash your whole body – for example, can you reach your back and your feet?

Can you get in and out of the bath or shower?

Can you do your own laundry? Do you have a washing machine?

Are you able to buy cleaning products?

Does your medical condition mean that you have to do more laundry?

Are you able to look after your personal appearance?

Can you manage things like washing your hair, shaving, cutting your nails or looking after your feet?

Do you have problems with your teeth or dentures?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing

Managing toilet needs

This is about being able to get to and use a toilet, and manage your toilet needs.

Examples of things to consider

Do you need help using the toilet?

Do you need help managing continence?

Does your medical condition affect your continence?

Does your medication cause incontinence?

Can you get to the toilet in time?

Is your toilet accessible?

Have you ever had a fall when trying to get to the toilet?

Do you have to get up in the night?

Do you need help to get out of bed?

Do you need help changing bedding?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing

Being appropriately clothed

This is about being able to dress yourself and wearing the right clothes for the weather or situation. Being inappropriately dressed could affect your health or wellbeing – for example, accessing and engaging in work, training, education or volunteering.

Examples of things to consider

Can you get dressed and undressed by yourself? Do you need anyone to help you?

Do you wear the right clothes for the weather?

Do you wear warm clothes in the winter?

Are there any things you find difficult – for example, buttons, laces or bending to put on socks and shoes?

Are you able to dress in more formal clothes? Can you put on a tie or zip up a dress?

Do you remember to wear a coat when it's cold or raining?

Are you able to buy new clothes?

Can you keep your clothes and shoes clean and in good condition?

Do you have a sensory impairment (for example, sight or smell loss) that makes it difficult for you to tell if your clothes are clean or you're wearing the right clothes?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing

Being able to make use of your home safely

This includes getting up any stairs or steps inside and outside of your home, using kitchen facilities or accessing the bathroom and toilet. Your answers may prompt a referral to an occupational therapist to assess your home and advise you about aids and adaptations.

Examples of things to consider

Do you have difficulties getting in and out of your home?

Can you get up and down stairs?

Can you access and use all the rooms in your home? Upstairs and downstairs?

Can you access and use all your appliances safely, such as your cooker or heaters?

Can you get in and out of bed without help?

Can you get on and off the sofa or your armchair without help?

Have you had any falls?

Do you need or have you got any equipment, for example, hoists or walking aids such as a Zimmer or Delta frame, or any electronic devices (telecare) such as a red button alarm or sensors?

Do you use a wheelchair? Are all the doors wide enough?

Is it safe for you to be on your own at home?

Is your home suitable for your needs?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing

Maintaining a habitable home environment

This is about keeping your home clean, safe and fit for living in, with access to amenities such as water, gas and electricity.

Examples of things to consider

Do you need help with the housework such as laundry and cleaning?

Do you find it difficult to do chores?

Can you keep your home free from clutter and mess?

Have you got a lot of stuff that makes it hard to move around your home?

Are you able to pay all your bills? Do you need support to do that?

Can you pay your rent or mortgage?

Do you sometimes forget to turn things off – for example, taps or the cooker?

Do you have a sensory impairment (for example, sight or hearing loss) that may mean you're at risk of falls or fire?

Is your home damp? Can you keep it warm?

Are you able to keep it in good repair? Can you do things like take out the rubbish, change light bulbs or test and change batteries in your smoke alarm?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing

Developing and maintaining family or other personal relationships

This is about meeting and staying in touch with new people or people that you already know. Social contact is important for your wellbeing and isolation can lead to anxiety and depression. Think about how much contact you need and how it affects your mood.

Examples of things to consider

Do you have a social life?

Do you feel isolated or lonely?

Does your health condition make it hard for you to meet new people?

Who do you go to if you need help or support?

Do you feel you need more contact with people?

Do you need support to help you have contact with other people – for example, making arrangements or help with transport?

Do you need help when you're with other people – for example, help to communicate?

How do you stay in contact with other people – for example, by phone, doing activities or online (video calls, email, social networks)?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing

Accessing and engaging in work, training, education or volunteering

This is about having a job, learning new skills, how you spend your leisure time, being able to pursue your personal interests and enjoying life. You may be asked if you're able to get involved in any opportunities that you want to and whether you need support.

Examples of things to consider

Are you able to leave your home safely?

Is there something you'd like to be able to do but can't?

Could you do a course if you wanted to?

Did you use to have a hobby that you can no longer do because of your condition?

Would you need support to take part in activities?

Do you have any difficulties communicating with other people?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing

Making use of necessary facilities in the local community, including public transport

This is about being able to get out in the community and use local services such as shops, trains or the library.

Examples of things to consider

Do you find it difficult to get out and about?

Can you get to the shops?

Can you get out to other places you like to go, such as the library, a café or the pub?

Can you get out to meet your friends?

Can you get to your place of worship?

Can you use public transport?

Do you have problems walking?

Could you afford a taxi if you needed one?

Do you need help getting to healthcare appointments?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing

Carrying out any caring responsibilities for a child

This is about the help you might need to carry out parenting or other caring responsibilities for a child. If you're caring for an adult and you need more support, ask for a carer's assessment.

Examples of things to consider

Do you look after your children, stepchildren or grandchildren?

How often do you do this?

Does your health condition make this difficult for you?

Do you need support to do this?

Do you need help to get them to school or to do homework?

Can you help them take part in leisure activities?

Can you prepare meals for them?

Can you look after them if they are unwell?

My difficulties

How this affects my wellbeing
